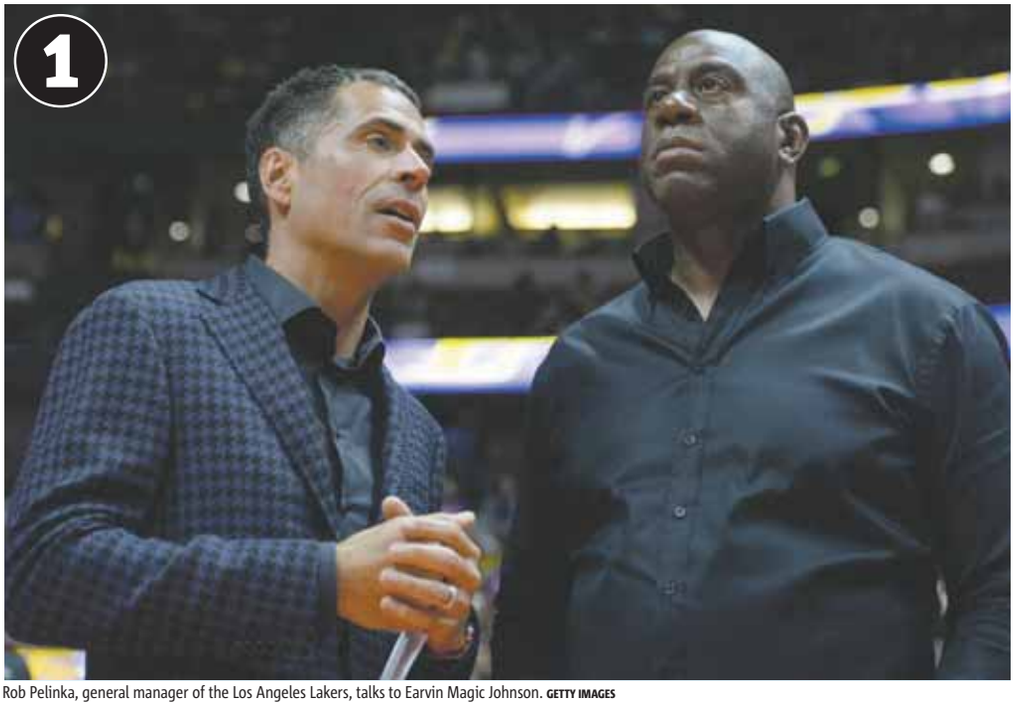
4 THINGS TO KNOW

Magic Johnson: Lakers GM Pelinka was backstabber

The bombshell came on the day Frank Vogel was to be introduced as head coach.



Rob Pelinka, general manager of the Los Angeles Lakers, talks to Earvin Magic Johnson. GETTY IMAGES

On the day the Los Angeles Lakers were scheduled to introduce their new head coach, a member of the old guard added a fresh dash of drama.

Former team president Magic Johnson, whose jersey hangs from the Staples Centers rafters, said Monday it was general manager Rob Pelinka's backstabbing ways that led to his resignation in April.

"Things got going in the right direction. Then I started hearing, 'Magic, you're not working hard enough. Magic's not in the office,'" Johnson told ESPN in an interview on "First Take" on Monday. "So people around the Lakers' office was telling me Rob — Rob Pelinka — was saying things and I didn't like this being said behind my back. That I wasn't in the office enough and on and on.

"So I started getting calls from my friends outside of basketball, saying those things now were said to them. Not just in the Lakers' office any more. Outside of basketball, in the media and so on. People have to remember something. Being in this business 40 years, I have allies, I've got friends everywhere.

"Then, I had to monitor the brothers. Joey and Jesse, the Buss brothers, wanted more involvement, more power. I said I didn't mind doing that. They're good guys. Also I sat them down and said I'm going to help you guys mature and get better. They felt they should have been in powerful positions, whether that's general manager or president."

Joey and Jesse Buss are the youngest children of late owner Jerry Buss, who died in 2013.

> "I said, 'I'm going to be in and out. Is that OK?' I said, 'Do I have the power to make decisions?' She said yes."

Johnson said the straw that broke the camel's back was a debate over coach Luke Walton's status.

"I wanted to fire Luke Walton," Johnson said, adding that ownership granted approval to fire Walton, then backpedaled. "Luke's a great guy. I said we need to get a better coach. Now I've got [team vice president] Tim [Harris] involved. I don't have the power that I thought I had to make the decisions. I told them, 'When it's not fun for me, when I don't have the decision-making power that I thought I had, I've got to step aside.'"

Johnson abruptly resigned on April 9, minutes before the team's regular-season finale, saying he hadn't told anyone — including controlling owner and team president Jeanie Buss, with whom he's close — about his decision in advance.

"When we sat down and negotiated, I said, 'I can't give up all my businesses. Is that OK?'" Johnson said. "I said, 'I'm going to be in and out. Is that OK?' I said, 'Do I have the power to make decisions?' She said yes."

Walton ultimately was fired and quickly hired as head coach of the Sacramento Kings.

Frank Vogel was named head coach of the Lakers last week, and he will sit alongside Pelinka at his introduction Monday afternoon.

Pelinka claimed Johnson's role and now reports directly to Jeanie Buss after previously reporting to Johnson. Buss considered various options, including filling Johnson's job, but decided to rely on Pelinka. Kurt Rambis remains as a special adviser.

Johnson's decision stunned star forward LeBron James, along with the rest of the team.

Jeanie Buss issued a statement at the time saying the team would "work in a measured and methodical fashion to make the right moves for the future of our organization."

Pelinka, 49, was an agent for many years — representing Kobe Bryant, among others — before the Lakers hired him in February 2017. He and Johnson replaced former GM Mitch Kupchak. His contract has three years remaining. REUTERS

Alabama cops arrest suspect in shooting of officer

2 A man sought for the shooting death of an Auburn, Alabama, police officer and the wounding of two others was arrested without incident early on Monday after a brief manhunt that had the community on edge, authorities said. Grady Wayne Wilkes, 29, was taken into custody about nine hours after the shooting, which happened on Sunday night when police responded to a report of a domestic disturbance and were met with gunfire, Auburn Police Chief Paul Register said. "It was relatively uneventful," Register said, describing the arrest at a news briefing. "No one was injured during the arrest of the suspect." Wilkes was charged with capital murder, three counts of attempted murder and third-degree domestic violence, Register said. Investigators are still trying to determine what prompted Wilkes, who served in the military and was dressed in military garb, to open fire on the officers, he said. REUTERS

McGahn to be told not to appear before Congress: NYT

3 President Donald Trump is expected to instruct former White House counsel Don McGahn to defy a congressional subpoena to testify before a U.S. House panel investigating whether Trump illegally obstructed the Russia probe, the New York Times reported on Monday. McGahn figures prominently in the part of Special Counsel Robert Mueller's probe that examined whether Trump tried to obstruct the investigation into whether the Republican businessman's 2016 presidential campaign colluded with Russia. The White House did not immediately respond to a request for comment. Democratic Rep. Jerrold Nadler, chairman of the House of Representatives Judiciary Committee, last month subpoenaed McGahn to testify before the panel on Tuesday, and has said he would hold the attorney in contempt if he did not show up. Ford to cut white-collar jobs, part of global restructuring

4 Ford Motor Co. said on Monday it will eliminate about 10 percent of its global salaried workforce, cutting about 7,000 jobs by the end of August as part of its larger restructuring in a move that will save the No. 2 automaker $600 million annually. Ford Chief Executive Officer Jim Hackett said in an email to employees that the cuts include both voluntary buyouts and layoffs, and a spokesman added it freezes open positions as well. About 2,300 of the affected people are employed in the United States, the spokesman said. Ford has been restructuring its operations globally to improve profitability and speed product development, making or announcing cuts in Europe, South America and Russia. The automaker also has signed a deal with Germany's Volkswagen AG to join forces on commercial vans and pickup trucks. REUTERS

‘Game of Thrones’ leaves fans sad, mad and wanting more

Critics called the finale a “disaster ending that fans didn’t deserve.”

Fans react to the final episode of “Game of Thrones” at a watch party in NYC.

Mixed reviews, a stray water bottle and pleas for a spinoff for feisty teen assassin Arya Stark marked the end of “Game of Thrones,” which came to a close on Sunday with one more shocking demise and an unlikely character named as king.

The 80-minute series finale of HBO’s medieval fantasy series proved as divisive as season 8 itself, with the hard-fought Iron Throne burned to the ground and the saga ending in what some called an anticlimax.

USA Today’s Kelly Lawler called the finale “a disaster ending that fans didn’t deserve,” adding that it was “hacky; it was cliched.”

Britain’s Radio Times was kinder, with blogger Huw Fullerton writing there were “some bits I liked, one or two I loved, an awful lot that leaves me scratching my head. But I will say, it ended better than I expected given the last two episodes.”

According to review aggregator Rotten Tomatoes, the finale got 59 percent approval from television critics, compared with 92 percent for the season 8 premiere on April 14.

Television series creators David Benioff and D.B. Weiss were silent on Monday. The executive producers had said they planned to go offline when the finale aired.

“We’ll be in an undisclosed location, turning off our phones and opening various bottles,” Weiss told Entertainment Weekly earlier this year.

Many fans were more upset about the series coming to an end after eight seasons.

“I thought it would be more of a dramatic ending,” health care worker Christine Lethune told Reuters at a viewing party in New York. “I’m mad, I’m mad that this is the last episode. I wish that there was more after this.”

Eagle-eyed fans spotted another modern prop that made its way on camera.

On Sunday. it was a plastic water bottle seen partly hidden behind the boot of character Samwell Tarly. The sighting followed dismay and jokes over the sighting of a stray paper coffee cup glimpsed during episode 4, aired two weeks ago.

HBO last year ordered a prequel, co-written by author George R.R. Martin, that is set thousands of years before the events of “Game of Thrones.”

But on Monday, many fans wanted a sequel based around Arya Stark (Maisie Williams), who is last seen aboard a ship to explore lands unknown.

Sarah Jessica Parker fights NYPL funding cuts

A majority of New Yorkers — 95 percent — said in an online survey that Mayor Bill de Blasio's proposed $11 million in funding cuts to public libraries would hurt the city's communities, according to the Daily News. Scaled-back hours and reduced programs like free after-school options for teens would curtail staffing and hiring across all five boroughs.

Now, actress Sarah Jessica Parker is adding her celebrity firepower to help rescue the city's libraries with an online campaign, the New York Post reported.

The aforementioned survey was released to coincide with National Library Week in April. Also among the responses: 97 percent of New Yorkers feel that low-income families, immigrants, children and senior citizens in particular benefit from library access.

The "Sex and the City" star launched a website dedicated to opposing the funding cuts. The site, InvestinLibraries.org, urges supporters to post virtual "sticky notes" that highlight the important role their library branch plays in the community. Parker said in an email statement: "As Carrie Bradshaw might, I couldn't help but wonder: Can New York City survive without strong public libraries? Could, I as a New Yorker accept cuts to our wonderful, important, necessary, and beloved libraries? I'm sorry. I can't."

Hundreds of people have posted notes with their names and local book nooks. On NYPL.org, Parker called her local Jefferson Market Library in Greenwich Village a "regular neighborhood stop for books, programs, and more,

The city's libraries have requested $35 million in additional funding in fiscal year 2020 and $963 million over 10 years in the 10-Year Capital Plan. The funding is needed for renovations, technology upgrades and critical maintenance. The mayor's proposal would mean an $8 million blow to their 2020 budgets and a potential $8 million loss of one-year City Council funding. The City Council will decide on the budget by June 30.

Brexit Party's candidate doused with milkshake during campaign stop

Nigel Farage is the latest anti-E.U. candidate to be targeted with milkshakes.

Nigel Farage and Brexit Party candidates campaign in Newcastle. REUTERS

Nigel Farage, the leader of Britain's Brexit Party, was doused in milkshake by a protester on Monday, the latest anti-E.U. figure to be targeted during campaigning for the European parliament elections.

Farage, one of the leading figures in the campaign for Britain to leave the European Union, was covered in the milkshake at an event in the northern English city of Newcastle.

Shortly after addressing supporters he was hit by a shake thrown by a man in his early 30s, before being escorted away by aides and into a taxi, according to a Reuters witness.

"Sadly some remainers have become radicalized, to the extent that normal campaigning is becoming impossible," Farage tweeted after the incident. "For a civilized democracy to work you need the losers [sic] consent, politicians not accepting the referendum result have led us to this."

Farage's newly-formed pro-Brexit party is predicted by opinion polls to win the most support in Britain at the elections later this week, promising to take the country out of the European Union without a deal.

Other anti-E.U. candidates not associated with the Brexit Party have also been targeted by milkshakes in recent weeks.

Farage, a 55-year-old former commodities broker, played an instrumental role in persuading Britain's mainstream political parties to hold a referendum on leaving the European Union in 2016, and then convincing voters to back Brexit during the subsequent campaign.

> "Sadly some remainers have become radicalized, to the extent that normal campaigning is becoming impossible."
> Nigel Farage, on Twitter

Britain remains deeply divided over the issue and parliament has been unable to agree when, how or even if the country should leave the bloc.

EDUCATION

Game of groans: Take a local workshop, write your own epic tale if you're so damn smart

Learn the tools and tricks to writing a better ending to HBO's late-"knight" show, "Game of Thrones."

NATE HOMAN
letters@metro.us

HELEN SLOAN / HBO

Everyone's a critic.

A TV show about dragons which killed off innumerable beloved characters like a plague somehow stayed relevant for eight seasons on HBO, and yet over 8 million people have signed a petition to make the writers rewrite the entire season.

A dragon-owning descendent of a maniacal tyrant showed her true (and predictable) colors and killed a bunch of innocent people while sacking a city, and people were somehow perplexed. Why wouldn't she? Does anyone else own a dragon? No? Exactly. No one can stop her from her veering into the realm of madness. Why not let tyranny take the wheel?

This came in the wake of an incredibly tepid attempt at topping the Battle of Helm's Deep for most epic hold-the-fort battle scenes. Jon Snow shanking Daenerys Targaryen mid-kiss was only poignant because a milquetoast, neutral-good character was tested beyond measure and committed a fatal act of domestic assault in the name of duty. The other surviving characters went in the direction destiny would have predicted, and the one-eared wolf was the real victor in all of this.

So, dear reader, we at Metro challenge you to a duel with a weapon far mightier than a sword. Sign up for one of these local writing courses and write a better ending to this epic. Or better yet, come up with something original instead of trying to slay trolls in the comments sections.

NEW YORK: Gotham Writers Workshop is a well-respected house. They offer many courses on a wide array of topics. Brooklyn Poets Yawp is a poetry gathering in Brooklyn, which means they mean business. The New York Screenwriters' Lab has a course taught by Dylan Gary, who draws on his experience writing for big-name companies like Sony and HBO. You know, the network you want to lead a coup d'etat against.

We wish you the best on your journey. Always tell the Gods of the Passive Voice, "Not today," and remember: When using a pen, stick the pad with the pointy end.

CUNY to offer city and state tuition rates and waived application fees for College of New Rochelle students impacted by closure

Today is a very bittersweet day for many, as it was announced that today's commencement for the graduating class of the College of New Rochelle would be the last to toss their caps into the air. But while these students will be earning their degrees, many who still have credits to earn were left in a bit of a lurch to figure out their next moves. Fortunately, the CUNY Board of Trustees has come to their rescue and has announced that it will be waiving all application fees and offering city and state tuition rates for students affected by the closure.

As a part of the university's agreement with the soon-to-be-closed school, students who make plans to transfer into one of CUNY's senior colleges will pay the in-state rate of $6,730 per year, while students who plan on transferring into community colleges will pay the in-city rate of $4,800 per year. By transferring over to one of CUNY's many schools, the board of trustees will also make sure that these students do not have to pay for application fees for both the Fall 2019 and Spring 2020 semesters.

But the question is, will students who were currently enrolled at the College of New Rochelle be able to find comparable programs within the CUNY system? With 11 senior colleges and seven community colleges within the five boroughs, students should be reassured that the CUNY system has a little bit of something for everyone. You can find more information on applications and courses within the CUNY school system over at www2.cuny.edu.

American Football throw out the handbook to find new life on 'LP3'

Singer-songwriter Mike Kinsella talks about the pressure of restarting the iconic emo band and ignoring expectations.

PAT KING

After the introduction of streaming platforms like Spotify and the constant barrage of promotion through social media, the conversation between fans and bands has changed from "Have you heard this great album?" to "Where is the new album?" It can be an unfortunate feeding frenzy for artists these days, where the hungry customer always knows that there is always another kitchen open when another one closes down for repairs. The highly influential Chicago band American Football was able to avoid this kind of pressure from fans by playing it slow from the very beginning.

Formed in 1997, the band released one self-titled album that inspired countless bands with their slowcore-meets-emo sound. After calling it quits in 2000, that album only swelled in importance. Fans were dying for a reunion, and they got their wish in 2014, as the band announced they would be getting back together for a string of shows. The tour went so well that the band decided to get back into the studio in 2016 to release a new album.

By most accounts, the second self-titled release was a success to all who heard it. Well, perhaps not to the band's lead singer-songwriter, Mike Kinsella. "I think we thought the songs on 'LP2' were good, but we thought we hurried everything. Literally and figuratively," says Kinsella.

Kinsella and the band toured that album extensively but felt as though the pressure of delivering on the folklore of the band had perhaps muddied the waters a little bit and that they would need to recapture their inspiration in a more purposeful way. Released last March, the band's third self-titled record does exactly that, with eight elegant and sprawling songs that capture the same captivating emotional feel that pulled fans in all of those years ago.

"I think, in hindsight, we did feel pressure on the second one and I think we were sort of caving to it a little bit," say s Kinsella, regarding the band's newfound sense of purpose. "We didn't realize people had listened to the band or cared about the band and then all of a sudden we found out a lot of people did. Then we had people telling us all of these ways to make a lot of people happy. As much as we think we're above that, I think it did influence what we were doing to some extent. We weren't as satisfied creatively as we thought we could have been or thought we would be. Going into the next one, we all agreed [to ask], 'What are the things we want to do and what are the things that interest us?'"

The new record bursts with possibilities as it contains new textures and instruments the band had never dared to use before to color their songs. Furthermore, the band enlisted the talents of three special female guest vocalists — Hayley Williams of Paramore, Elizabeth Powell of Land of Talk, and Rachel Goswell of Slowdive — to introduce a new cast of characters into the band's traditionally insular world.

In the five years since the band has become active again, they have managed to do the unthinkable: They have transitioned from riding the excitement of a reunion tour to creating music that feels as vital as their younger contemporaries who may be benefiting from the trail they blazed all of those years earlier.

"We went and did this record and were, like, 'Well, if we're not beholden to these fans, let's just write the music we want.' We're kind of starting over. We feel like a new band!"

American Football play Warsaw on Friday, May 24, and Saturday, May 25.

And the Palme d'Or winner is...

Yes, we have revelations regarding this year's Palme winner at Cannes.

PAULO PORTUGAL, MWN
letters@metro.us

Between screenings, interviews, stress, some writing and also some parties (we are human, after all), here's some curiosities of the biggest film festival in the world.

Journalist and film critic Paulo Portugal, who is also presiding over the FIPRESCI jury in competition, shares with us some thoughts on the future choices to be made in Cannes.

Which film will win the Palme d'Or?

Even if no winners are known in advance, we might appeal to our experience to make some predictions. To do so, we go into the mind of jury President Alejandro G. Iñarritu, joined by fellow directors Kelly Reichardt, Alice Rohrwatcher, Maimouna N'Diaye, Yorgos Lanthimos and Pawel Pawlikowski, as well as Elle Fanning, the youngest Cannes juror in history, and comic-book writer Enki Bilal.

Here are our picks:

Pedro Almodóvar
"Pain and Glory"
It's a new comeback for Spanish Pedro — apparently his most intimate project ever, which can mean he might touch the hearts of the jury composed of filmmakers. Let's see how they react to this story of an Almodovar who looks back on the decisions he's made in his life as everything is in chaos around him.

Xavier Dolan
"Matthias and Maxime"
A Cannes darling, this 30-year-old director presents a story about two friends attempting to understand the feelings they have for each other.

Kléber Mendonça Filho and Juliano Dornelle
"Bacurau"
Brazilian director Kléber Mendonça stunned Cannes three years ago with the excellent "Aquarius." This year, the only filmmaker in competition from Latin America might touch the jury with the strength message of political resistance in "Bacurau."

Ira Sachs
"Frankie"
It is the Cannes festival for the filmmaker who has 30 years of experience. American Ira Sachs seeks to surprise the jury with this project shot in Portugal. "Frankie" stars Isabelle Huppert, Marisa Tomei, Greg Kinnear and Brandan Gleeson.

Elia Suleiman
"It Must Be Heaven"
It will be one of the last films to screen in Cannes. And it might mean something! Because this return of the Palestinian filmmaker after 10 years brings, as always, his own persona as his alter ego. This time the story unfolds around a main character looking for an alternative homeland. Once again we expect a comedy of errors.

So, we will see what happens soon. But let's not forget possible accolades for the previous Palme d'Or winners: Terrence Malick ("A Hidden Life"), Ken Loach ("Sorry We Missed You"), Jean-Pierre and Luc Dardenne ("Young Ahmed"), Quentin Tarantino ("Once Upon a Time in Hollywood"), or one of the women directors (Jessica Hausner, Justine Triet, Célie Sciama and Mati Diop). Revelations are to be made on the evening of May 26!

Why Aren't Doctors Telling Knee Arthritis Sufferers About These Two Often Successful Treatments?

Two Advanced Medical Treatments Every Knee Arthritis Sufferer Needs To Know - Before Or After Knee Replacement Surgery

NYC -If you suffer with knee arthritis pan, you have probably already tried many treatments... especially countless pain medications. With minimal or no results

Are there any better options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there are two very good options for knee arthritis a lot of knee arthritis sufferers have never heard of.

Before we get into the two treatments, please understand this...

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated thousands of knee arthritis sufferers. Patients travel from all over the tai-state to be treated at one of their clinics because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover are two REAL medical treatments. Not miracle cures you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no cure for arthritis. But there are these two treatments that have already helped thousands of knee arthritis sufferers - possibly just like you.

#1 Viscosupplementation

Here's what you need to know about viscosupplementation - the good and the bad....

When you have arthritis, you suffer a decrease in the lubrication fluids in your knee. In other words, your knee joints basically "dries up."

The lubricating fluid that decreases is called "synovial fluid."

Pharmaceutical companies (with the help of scientists) can now make synovial fluid-like compounds that... during viscosupplementaiton treatments... doctors precisely inject directly into the knee joint.

This helps replace the lubricating fluid to the knee joint - allowing it to move more freely and smoothly and often decreasing or even eliminating the pain.

What Results Can Be Expected?

Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. But many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years... or even permanently cancel it.

But There Is A BIG Problem

The key is the treatment must be EXTREMELY PRECISE. If the procedure is slightly off, the formula will not get into the knee joint and the treatment will not work.

That's why the experts at NYC Pain MD use advanced digital imaging so they visually guide the injection accurately into the knee joint during the treatment.

Research shows that performing joint injections without imaging miss the joint as much as 30% of the time.

If you have had prior viscosupplementation without this special digital imaging without good results - this may be the exact reason why.

That's why NYC Pain MD even takes it one step further. They do not just use one form of advanced imaging during treatment - they use two in their "double confirmation" process. This is to ensure patients get the best possible results.

Another Important Factor

Viscosupplementation "medicines" also come in several different formulas.

Just like all medications, some people respond better to one than another. While many doctors only use one formula, the experts at NYC Pain MD use several and great effort is taken to figure out what the best one is for you.

What Should You Do If Viscosupplementation Fails?

#2 Radiofrequency Neurotomy

This treatment is called, "Radiofrequncy Neurotomy." RF for short

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

Several branches of nerves that surround the knee are known as "Genicular nerves."

Radiofrequncy waves are delivered to the Genicular nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves.

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "G Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, Genicular Neurotomy (GRF) is performed for long term relief.

Is It Safe?

Research has shown this procedure to be safe and effective.

One study published November 4, 2010 in the journal Pain found that RF treated subjects on average "achieved at least 50% knee pain relief at 1, 4 and 12 weeks, respectively. No patient reported a post-procedure adverse event during the follow-up period. RF neurotomy of Genicular nerves leads to significant pain reduction and functional improvement in a subset of elderly chronic knee OA pain, and thus may be an effective treatment in such cases."

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication, physical rehab or viscosupplementation do not offer good enough results.

RF may be utilized before resorting to total knee replacement. RF allows many patients to avoid knee replacement surgery.

But - RF has also been found effective AFTER knee replacement surgery when the patient still feels pain.

The pain after a failed knee replacement surgery can be debilitating and this procedure may be the only thing that helps and give you after surgery relief.

Advanced Imaging Allows Doctors To Pin-Point Treatments And Relieve Knee Arthritis Pain

Advanced imaging allows doctors to successfully inject special lubricating gel directly into knee joint relieving pain
Failed treatment: Knee injection done without advanced imaging lubricating fluid completely misses the joint space

Science rescues knee arthritis sufferers? Research shows joint injections done without advanced imaging misses the joint about 30% of the time. Now doctors can put lubricating fluid directly into the arthritis joint that may alleviate pain and restore function to many.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain

NYC Pain MD offers a limited number of complimentary knee arthritis t screenings every month. These screenings are a way for knee arthritis sufferers to get their questions answered and see if they are a candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at NYC Pain MD. If you would like to schedule a screening, just call 877-380-8537.

The screenings fill up fast every month. This screening is no cost and there absolutely no obligation.

More good news: for qualified candidates, insurances and Medicare often cover these treatments.

The Arlo SoHo teams with Indiewalls for NYCxDesign

The hotel will host a cocktail party this Wednesday to unveil work by local artists.

Over the past week or so, you may have noticed that our city has been a little bit more colorful than usual. Beginning May 10 and ending tomorrow night, the city has come alive with installations and events showcasing different design disciplines for NYCxDesign. For their closing event, Arlo Hotels and Indiewalls, a leading art consultancy for the hospitality design industry specializing in local, independent art, are pairing up to transform the rooftop bar at the Arlo SoHo, the A.R.T. SoHo, into a mesmerizing showcase with murals by local artists.

Tomorrow night, the Arlo Hotel will be hosting a cocktail reception, completely open to the public, to show off these wonderful pieces in order to show New Yorkers how much a little color can change the most unlikely of places. That is exactly what Indiewalls president Ari Grazi wants to put forward with his company.

"At Indiewalls, we believe that art is integral to telling the story of a space," said Grazi, in a release. "That made involvement with NYC x Design a natural fit for our company and an opportunity to demonstrate what we do best: build bridges between the worlds of art and design."

By introducing these pieces to both people who may be staying at the Arlo SoHo and New Yorkers who'd just like to enjoy a drink with a view, Indiewalls is bringing a new kind of exposure to local artists who may not get the same chances elsewhere.

"At the heart of our company is the mission to nurture a growing community of independent artists and creators looking to make an impact," explained Lauren Schleider, creative director at Indiewalls and designer for the A.R.T. SoHo mural project. "And like Arlo, we find that visitors are hungry to connect with local culture. The hospitality industry presents the perfect meeting point for both."

Wednesday, May 22, 5:30-7:30 p.m., A.R.T. SoHo at Arlo SoHo, 231 Hudson St. RSVP at discover.indiewalls.com/arlo-soho-indiewalls-design-with-art. PAT KING

Before we get into these treatments, please understand this...

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated the worst cases of back pain. Patients travel from all over to be treated at one of their clinics for all sorts of joint and muscle pain because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover is a REAL medical treatment. Not some miracle cure you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no one treatment that will help every case of back pain. And we cannot guarantee this treatment will work for you. But this treatment has already helped countless back and neck pain sufferers who had given up hope. I bet many just like you.

What is this treatment? It's called...

Radiofrequency Neurotomy

"Radiofrequncy Neurotomy" is often referred to as RF for short.

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your spine and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

Radiofrequency waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves.

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, the Radio Frequency Neurotomy is scheduled and performed for longer term relief.

What Results Can You Expect?

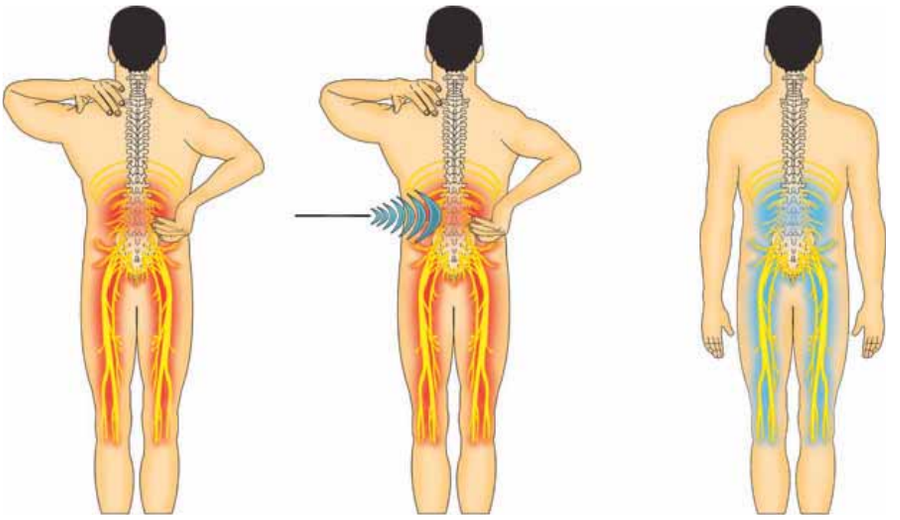
Like all real medical procedures... results vary for individual patients. No good and ethical doctor would guarantee any exact results for any procedure... that's just not how things work and it would be less than honest.

That's being said, it is not uncommon for patients to get complete, if not significant relief of their pain shortly after the treatment.

How Long Do The Results Last?

This procedure "blocks" the nerves pain signals... it does not destroy them. Therefore, the results are safe but not completely permanent. But, many patients get relief for 6 months… 12 months…. 18 months for some and some even longer. The great news is - another procedure can be safely preformed for more relief if necessary.

Advanced Treatment Uses Radio Frequencies To Relieve Serious Neck & Back Pain



Science rescues back & neck pain sufferers?: Radio Frequency Waves are used to block the nerve supply to the painful area and may alleviate pain and restore function to many.

While we cannot claim this is a complete "permanent cure" but... it can be a god-send for so many who were in constant pain.

Really... what would it be worth it to you could get out of pain for long enough so you could start enjoying your everyday life again?

Would it be worth it to be able to finally get a good nights sleep again?

How about being able to go for a simple walk or just do your basic daily chores without worrying about so much pain?

Is It Safe?

Yes. This procedure has been done countless times and continues to have an excellent safety record. It is minimally invasive and is not surgical.

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication and physical therapy do not offer good enough results.

RF has also been found effective AFTER back surgery when patient's still feel pain.

The pain after a failed back surgery can be debilitating for some and this procedure may be the only thing that helps give you relief.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain And The "X" Factor

Here is the "X" factor many do not consider that might be the difference between you getting the best possible treatment or not.

Many experts suggest choosing a medical clinic that offers all these treatments and has the proper, most advanced technology all under one roof without the need for a surgical center or hospital.

Major Savings In Time And Costs Of Care?

NYC Pain MD's method allows you to avoid expensive hospital or out patient surgi-center facility fees which often run 3 to 4 times the cost of the procedure itself. And you don't have to go through the huge stress and time consuming process of going all over the city to outside centers. All the NYC Pain MD treatments can be done in out in-office procedure suites saving you stress, time and dollars. NYC Pain MD believes this additional "X" factor is one of the reasons so many back pain sufferers travel from all over to be treated at one of their advanced medical clinics.

This summer, New Yorkers will get the treat of viewing "Beyond the Streets," the world's premier exhibition of graffiti, street art and beyond, with a showcase of work by more than 150 artists from around the world. The exhibit will make its home in Williamsburg, Brooklyn, for a limited time starting on June 21.

The exhibition will take over two floors of 25 Kent, a new creative office building located right along the Williamsburg waterfront. Having just wrapped up its run in Los Angeles, the exhibit will bring the spirit of street art to the city where it was born with performances, lectures and films, along with artwork hanging amidst more than 100,000 square feet of space.

The show's run will also include a few very special exhibits including the U.S. debut of "Facing the Giant: 3 Decades of Dissent," Shepard Fairey's 30th anniversary of his iconic work; a special Beastie Boys installation featuring artifacts from the band's legendary four-decade history; and much more.

JETS MUST BE WARY OF HANDING ABSOLUTE POWER TO ADAM GASE

PANTORNO'S PERCH

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno

Jets head coach and interim GM Adam Gase has already made waves within the organization. GETTY IMAGES

Just when things were looking up for the New York Jets, management provides another reminder that they are one of the most dysfunctional organizations in sports.

After allowing the team to hire a new head coach, spend a boatload of cash in free agency, and control their draft room last month, the Jets fired general manager Mike Maccagnan last week after a reported rift with new head coach Adam Gase.

Gase — who has resembled a brooding, moody teenager throughout his first four months at the position — is now the acting general manager while he and CEO Christopher Johnson find a new GM.

A word of warning for both Christopher and owner Woody Johnson: Don't put all your eggs in the Gase basket.

Regardless of the organization's denial that fundamental differences between Maccagnan and Gase led to last week's firing, it's clear to see that it played a part.

You don't need to be an insider for that.

Among their disagreements, Gase did not want the Jets to go out and sign star running back Le'Veon Bell — or any rusher, for that matter — to a big contract.

Maccagnan and ownership ignored him, inking the former Steeler to a four-year, $52.5 million deal in March.

But the final nail in Maccagnan's proverbial coffin came through the draft. The New York Daily News' Manish Mehta reported that Gase distanced himself from Maccagnan, who muted the head coach's voice when it came to scouting prospects.

The reason? Maccagnan didn't want Gase's observations to mar the views of Jets scouts who had been working for over a year to compile the best possible draft strategy.

So on draft night, Gase sat off-camera away from Maccagnan, which was all Christopher Johnson needed to show Maccagnan the door.

A petty move, yes. One a Jets source told Mehta was "extreme."

But at the end of the day, Gase got exactly what he wanted, which indicates that he isn't going to stop at much to inject his culture into Gang Green.

Gase will now have a clear path to choose a general manager that fits his ideologies and systems. It will be imperative, though, that Johnson doesn't sign off on hiring a "yes man" to allow Gase to have free reign.

There have already been inklings of Gase trying to eliminate some of Maccagnan's hard work this offseason. That includes the recent rumors that the Jets could trade Bell before he even suits up for the organization.

Because the Jets already paid Bell $12 million in signing and roster bonuses, a possible trade suitor would be getting Bell for an even larger discount.

Four years at $40.5 million is quite a bargain for a three-time Pro Bowler who is one of the best dual threats in the NFL.

Getting rid of Bell would provide Gase with his wish of getting the 27-year-old off the Jets' books. But it would also come with the Jets being the butt of jokes once again around the NFL.

Picking up a superstar rusher that will provide franchise quarterback Sam Darnold with a first, real offensive weapon is invaluable for his development and his confidence. The USC product will enter his second year knowing that he doesn't have to carry the Jets' offense by himself.

However, because of what can be considered an elongated temper tantrum from Gase, the Jets might blow an opportunity to have their most talented offensive weapon in years.

If I were Jets management and given an ultimatum of Gase or a franchise running back like Bell, I'd start looking for a new head coach now.

Duchene back for Isles' taking?

The New York Islanders are facing one of the most important offseasons in recent memory.

Following a second-round playoff exit where they defied the odds with a subpar roster, president Lou Lamoriello and head coach Barry Trotz can spend this summer tweaking things.

The Islanders were the NHL's top defensive team during the regular season and through the first round of the playoffs. Yet a lack of scoring punch created by the absence of true goal scorers inside a structured, defensive system was the team's ultimate Achilles' heel.

It was something Trotz admitted the Islanders needed shortly after being swept out of the second round by the Carolina Hurricanes, in which the Islanders scored five goals in four games.

Free agency is going to provide Lamoriello and Trotz with a bevy of opportunities to pick up some offensive help this summer. Among the names available is Columbus Blue Jackets center Matt Duchene — fresh off a 31-goal, 39-assist campaign — who has been constantly linked with the Islanders over the past two years.

On Monday, Duchene revealed a pretty sizable clue that his time in Columbus is up, which is good news for the Islanders.

Duchene posted a message on Instagram in which he thanked Blue Jackets fans for his brief stint in Columbus, according to FireTheCannon.com. He deleted the post shortly after.

"Thank you for giving myself and my family such a warm welcome and for giving my teammates and I memories we'll never forget," he wrote. "You guys are incredible."

While it wasn't a direct goodbye, messages like that are commonplace for players who are preparing to skip town.

It should have the Islanders poised to strike come July 1, when free agency begins. According to CapFriendly.com, the Islanders are projected to have $35.2 million in cap space this offseason. Only three teams — including two of his former sides, the Senators and Avalanche — have more.

With the Islanders miles ahead of their rebuilding schedule and with shovels possibly breaking ground on their new arena next month, Lamoriello and Trotz can promise a bright future for Duchene in New York.

Knee Arthritis Pain?
10 Year Medical Study Reveals Knee Replacement Avoided With Newest Medical Treatment In 3 of 4 Cases

If you suffer with painful knee arthritis – science may have finally found the answer you've been looking for.

Here's why: What should be looked at as a landmark and startling study by the medical world, research published by a noted Orthopedic Surgeon in the Journal Of Knee Surgery revealed that 75% of those with Grade IV (often called "bone on bone") knee arthritis were able to avoid the surgery more than 7 years and beyond.

When doctors accurately placed FDA approved lubricating medicines using advanced imaging into almost 2000 arthritic knees (like putting oil on a rusty door hinge or automobile engine) the majority of patients actually responded well enough to avoid major and complex knee replacement surgery. But, the procedure needs to be done by experienced doctors using the best technology for optimum technique and results.

Know this: This is an FDA-cleared REAL medical treatment that must be given by a skilled professional.

These special treatments are now available right here in NYC for Tri-State area arthritis sufferers. And many insurances, even Medicare, cover these treatments for qualified patients.

More Good News: NYC Pain MD, the NYC area's "go to' medical group for non-surgical arthritis pain management is now offering these simple, in-office treatment programs and offers a No-Cost, No-Obligation screening appointment to find out if you qualify. To speak with a scheduling coordinator about a screening appointment, just call 877-228-5490.

Callaway getting one last chance?

GETTY IMAGES

Mickey Callaway is still the manager of the New York Mets — at least for now.

It seems like it's only a matter of time before the second-year bench boss is shown the door after the Mets were swept by the worst team in baseball, the Miami Marlins, over the weekend.

Yet Callaway received the dreaded vote of confidence from general manager Brodie Van Wagenen on Monday evening.

"Mickey's our manager now," Van Wagenen said. "Mickey's our manager moving forward."

A seven-game homestand against the Washington Nationals and Detroit Tigers, however, could be the manager's last chance at saving his job, though his fate may already have been decided by ownership and Van Wagenen. At least the Mets aren't going to repeat the 2008 firing of Willie Randolph when they let him go in Los Angeles after the first night of a six-game West Coast road trip.

A potential firing of Callaway is the Wilpon family and Van Wagenen's last chance of getting the Mets back on track before the complete focus of Mets fans' ire is aimed at them.

The Mets looked flat and uninspired down in Miami, which partly is the manager's fault. However, ownership's refusal to spend money on marquee players to make the Mets legitimate contenders has limited the chances of Callaway succeeding at his first managing gig.

While Mets fans are shouting for something to be done, star pitcher Noah Syndergaard came to his manager's defense before returning home.

"I respect the hell out of Mickey," Syndergaard said, per the New York Post. "Mickey has tremendous leadership values. I think it's bulls— what's going on with this speculation there could be a change because we're so early in the season. We're a very small step away from putting this all together."

To save his manager's job, that very small step has to happen almost immediately. JOE PANTORNO
